Opening narration:

The corner is occupied by one Mr. Stilton. His job was his identity. Now unemployable he's beaten like a boxer spitting canvas fibers from his disfigured mouth.

Enter Mrs. Stilton. ... Most recently inventor of the “BABY SNIP-A-LOT” doll with lifelike umbilicus.

Presenting this invention to her husband, he'll grasp it as the final thread frays dangling between hope and despair. Cut and cut the doll's umbilicus until he can accomplish it blindfolded.

Not seen with the eyes, but with the heart. This is not an optical illusion ... This is ... THE TWILIGHT ZONE.

Closing narration:

Severing his newborn's umbilical cord, Stilton did not hear a cry, nor see signs of life.

Upon feeling the infant's warm face Stilton was no longer bitter about the work accident leaving him blind and deaf.

As their hearts beat together he again feels whole.

Tonight's tale of 20/20 vision from ... THE TWILIGHT ZONE.
