Opening narration:

Submitted for your approval, Loretta and Gus Bacon, a couple whose days are filled with disenchantment and drudgery as they make their way through a dying world filled with hate, greed, and ignorance. They had longed for a future filled with happiness and greener pastures, but as of yet that box remains unchecked. Today a monster approaches in the form of a hurricane, so they have decided to punch the time clock of life and sail towards the juggernaut. Little do they know along the way to their fate, they will pick up a very unusual stowaway, one who will set their course heading directly into the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

Picture of a redeemed couple who offered the hand of friendship to a stranger in need and found themselves the owners of a distant, young world full of golden happy days in a very promising sector of the Twilight Zone.
