Opening narration:

Nicholas Cavallo, aged 34, is an average suburban resident, working late hours at his office each day for a promotion that always slips his grasp. Rarely does he have time for relationships or friends. On his doorstep will he find a package containing an antique mirror. No return address is listed, but this package has been delivered from the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

Perhaps Nicholas had found what he was looking for in that mirror. He has found eternity behind that thin wall of glass, dividing the world he knew and the one that lurks deep within the human psyche. Every person desires affection, to be loved. One can only hope that he is content with his “soul mate” as they forever embrace in the Twilight Zone.
