

“Disappearing Act”

copyright 2018 by Victor Miller Sr.

Opening narration:

Meet, Harlan Brace: 30, stock broker, manipulator, weasel; at an early age he learned his gift of gab could extricate him from impending peril. From grade school through college he was a deal-maker; always one step ahead of a flying fist. He's made millions via the stock market and is about to be arrested for insider trading. He's a man who desperately needs to disappear before the cell door closes. All he has to do is make one final deal, in the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

A wise man once said, “Beware the kindness of strangers.” Unfortunately, Harlan Brace neglected to heed those words. In his haste to circumvent the law he ran smack into an old and new form of justice, in the Twilight Zone.
