

“Game Room”

By: Geoffe Haney, copyright 2017

Opening narration:

A typical Friday night in a typical town. A group of friends gather to play a game. A table, a board, dice and maps, but tonight's game is going to be different. A new member is about to take a seat at this table of close friends, and roll the dice into The Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

To quote Albert Einstein, "Reality is merely an illusion, albeit a very persistent one". These game players that manufactured their own reality, in a fantasy world controlled by the roll of dice, are now and forever part of that reality in The Twilight Zone.