

“The Toy Brigade”

by Laurie Kelley, copyright 2017

Opening narration:

A child’s world can be somewhat of a roller coaster ride even in the best environment. And it can be pretty harsh when you’re the only child of two miserable, self-serving parents, whose primary goal in life is to torture each other using you as their pawn. Today we’ll have a glimpse into Andy’s world. A lonely place where his toys are his main companions. And now they must come to Andy’s aid when his parents cross the line from dysfunction to cruelty. A wrong that will be righted within the walls of The Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

A word to the not so wise. To those who manipulate their world using others as pawns..... beware. One day your destructive deeds will catch up with you, and you’ll find no place to seek refuge from yourself or your actions. On this day, justice will have been served, compliments of The Twilight Zone.