Opening Narration:

The date is September 11, 2001. It is a glorious fall morning. The place is Boston’s Logan International Airport. The time is 7:30 AM as Adam Strand boards American Airlines Flight 11 bound for LA. But Strand will never reach LA. Fate has another destination planned for him – a detour by way of the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration:

How Strand suddenly found himself aboard United Airlines Flight 93 at 9:30 AM is unimportant. He is not listed on either plane’s manifest. What is important, however, is that he escaped death at the World Trade Center only to find himself on a sacred mission – a mission to convince passengers of the need to overcome their hijackers at the cost of their very own lives. Self-sacrifice for a greater good is nothing new. Strand and his fellow UA93 passengers can wear their timeless badge of courage proudly.... in the Twilight Zone.
