Opening Narration:

You are watching Mr. Daniel Petrie indulge in his favourite pastime—misdirecting someone who is lost. He does not mean to be cruel, you understand, he simply finds it amusing. Mr Petrie will have cause to reflect on this particular quirk of his nature, as very shortly, he will find himself on the receiving end of a little misdirection, which will lead him straight into the heart of the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration:

You are watching Mr. Daniel Petrie. A man who has quite literally lost his way. When you are next approached by someone needing directions, remember to be kind. It just might be Mr Petrie, still trying to get home from the Twilight Zone.
