Opening Narration:

A picture can tell a thousand words, and the woman in this photo is a prosecuting attorney and the long-lost sister of Margaret Cooke. Both sisters have been locked in figurative prisons since law school and the key to each one’s future will lie in their arguments and evidence from the past. Only there will be no judge or jury in this trial, because it is held at a courtroom from a jurisdiction only found ...in The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration:

Portrait of a legal expert who had to defend herself from a prosecutor known by many as a personal demon, skeleton in the closet and ghost, who haunted Margaret Cooke into self-hatred and isolation. Margaret, however, found she was innocent and the guilty party a mutated memory finally put to rest. An open and shut case for peace and serenity that can only be witnessed ...in The Twilight Zone.
