Opening Narration:

Meet Daniel Crump, failed casino owner, ostentatious celebrity and successful reality television star with a knack for firing actors in front of millions of viewers. But in a few moments, Mr. Crump’s fake firings will turn into real life and death decisions and his words will have as much importance as the men and women who say them. It is Mr. Crump’s final opportunity to preserve his legacy and a meaningful place that can only be found in the historical annals ...of The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration:

Daniel Crump, whose truth-to-power spoke only to dictators and world leaders who buy elections and then cast ballots in premanufactured voting booths. Daniel Crump, who bought himself a presidency, delivered a one-star performance and tore the Declaration of Independence into a proclamation littered with tyranny. Tonight’s civics lesson in Constitutional Democracy, ordained only by legislators roaming the West Wing ...of The Twilight Zone.
