Opening Narration:

For Mr. Phill Windslow,

Having it all has never been enough. His assemblage of thoughts have crafted a mind containing closed loops of ungratefulness, greed and unhappiness that is a recipe in need of a cure, like some kind of final Cosmic approach something appears for Him in the form of a small metal object—a Key!—that leads to an unexpected drive through the scenic route of the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration:

Along a Scenic Route where a true Paradise does exist, a sanctuary for any troubled and tortured mind. But for Mr. Windslow, he laughingly chooses the wrong turn of the Key only to lock deeper into the never ending grip of the Twilight Zone.
