

“Memento Mori”

© 2021 by Arthur W. Young

Opening Narration

Memento mori. Words inscribed on the reverse side of a gold coin, belonging to Julius Caesar himself. Literally translated, “a reminder of death” – a nagging feeling, of time tick-ticking away, of every grain of sand passing through the hourglass. For some, it is an obsession; for others, it is a curse. It is the first thought of the day and the last thought at night. Colloquially translated, it means “remember that you have to die,” just a small reminder that no matter how great one's accomplishments, a grave waits for us all...

Closing Narration

A gold coin, belonging to Julius Caesar himself. Written on the obverse side: Memento vivere. Literally translated, "a reminder of life." Colloquially translated, "remember that you have to live." Even here. In The Twilight Zone.