Opening Narration

Heatwave Entertainment is a publisher of pixels and pain en masse. A noxious smog of silence falls on its employees with each new financial quarter. Meet Chief Executive Ogler Richard Cornell, a man with a reved-up ego spewing all manner of pollutants. Cornell can't muster a sliver of respect for women. He will soon face a jury of his peers in the digital court of the metaverse and The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Time to hit pause before the kill screen. Controllers, abusers, and manipulative miscreants may never question or gaze upon the darkened reflections on their TV screens, but judgement is swift and merciless in the metaverse. Richard now finds himself in a silent loop of acrimony within a video game of his own designing where the abuser has become the abused. The game is never over in The Twilight Zone.
