

“The Paths Not Taken”

© 2021 by Anthony De Lapi

Opening Narration

Climbing up the rocky nature trail is college student Seth Foster, who is hiking to escape the stacking academic and social failures of his day. His self-worth gutted out of him like a fish. Unknown to Seth, the endless sea of great pine trees have some troubles of their own. The residential beasts have a grudge or two willing to share. The voices of the wind also want to chime in and give advice. Seth Foster just entered the South Hill Gold Woods, but the roads will turn. Spirits are present and will take him down the path... to the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Seth Foster, who became lost on the trail, who learned from the forest spirits, found a better path to travel by. Exiting the forest, a man with a new sense of purpose untouched by life's trickery. Who experienced Mother Earth's solace, compassion, and higher reflection in...the Twilight Zone.