

“The Rocking Chair”

© 2021 by David Fleming

Opening Narration

Mr. Roger Shaw, 82 who spends his life wasting away in his rocking chair with a most annoying squeak, by his bedroom window, daily tells the staff that his rocking chair is the only thing that is keeping him alive and to leave it, would mean he'd die. Mr. Shaw is about to give new meaning to the saying... “you can't take it with you.”

Closing Narration

As the nursing staff entered his room to get Mr. Shaw for breakfast, they found him dead in his bed of what appeared to be a heart attack. In the room, one of the attendants noticed his rocking chair was gone. While the EMS personal were wheeling Mr. Shaw's body out of the room, one of them told the other that he swore he heard something with a loud squeak in the room. Mr. Shaw is enjoying his rocking chair with the annoying squeak, somewhere in the area known as the Twilight Zone.