Opening Narration

Portrait of a study in mediocrity. Mr. Peter Harvey, age 34. Profession: file clerk. Hobbies: stamp collecting, crossword puzzles, and various solitary pursuits.

Peter Harvey has accepted a life sentence of insignificance... despite a lack of pronouncement by judge, jury or the Almighty. Each morning he leaves this apartment and feels as though he is invisible.

What he does not know is that *this* morning's route to work leads straight through...the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Take a rock and throw it in a river. The rock creates ripples on the water...ripples that cascade into waves of substance. So it is with all our lives. We are bigger than the sum of our parts.

And our dramatic roles in the stage play known as mankind are significant in ways we do not see...and the production falters if we fade from view. A lesson that should echo inside—and outside—the Twilight Zone.
