

“Corridor”

© 2023 by Steve Coney

Opening Narration

By definition, a corridor is a passage between two points; a hallway or promenade.

Now imagine if you will, finding yourself in a corridor with no discernable beginning or end, only a pathway with seemingly endless choices of twists, turns and doorways.

Let us peruse the predicament of a person in this very situation deep inside the corridors of the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Perhaps, in the end we are all traveling an endless corridor from cradle to grave; a path of choices with no memory of its beginning and no sight of its end. The corridor we each travel is laden with options. Some choices lead to happiness, some lead to despair and some lead straight through...the Twilight Zone.