Opening Narration

A special treat: Date Night without the kids, a brief respite from the hectic day-to-day of family life. Imani and Hakeem Johnson are celebrating a promotion—and also trying to forget a recent tragedy. Fittingly, they made reservations at one of the swankiest restaurants around: a farm-to-table gastronome’s paradise. But what’s on the prix-fixe menu may not be to their taste in...the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Run-hide-fight. Imani Johnson, ready to make a last stand against her pursuers in that most American of places, a barn. The odds are stacked against her as high as those cuts of the special veal back in the kitchen of Eighty Acres. But she has a chance. Because she is a survivor...and she has that most American of advantages: the righteous strength of the underdog. That gives anyone a fighting chance in...the Twilight Zone.
