Opening Narration

Meet Peter Nicholson, an elderly professor who traded decades of his life to convey astronomical knowledge within the confines of a small observatory. He is about to be informed that he is on the edge of his usefulness. His worn methods and tired telescope have no place in a university reaching for more than just the stars. But Professor Nicholson is not ready to retire and is desperate to find the answer that will save 50 years of meticulous research. He will soon learn that the equation of life can have an unusual solution in...the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

An ultimatum can often lead to confrontation. But for the timid Professor Nicholson, an ultimatum delivered by those in power left him with an impossible problem until help arrived in the form of an ordinary person with an extraordinary ability to guide the professor on a slight deviation through...the Twilight Zone.
