Opening Narration

Introduction to a person we all know or have all regretted meeting at least once in our lifetime. Perhaps on occasion some of us even had the great displeasure of being related to this unhappy person within the confines of our own family.

Meet Shane Carpenter, a 32-year old family man whose unhappiness with everything and everyone has spilled over into every corner of his life. Shane's bad attitude has affected his home life his work life and in particular his very own existence.

In just a moment, Mr. Carpenter's brash nature and uncompromising unhappy attitude about life is going to cast doubt on his own self worth.

Closing Narration

Shane's needed attitude adjustment about the true meaning of happiness comes with quite a hefty price tag for services rendered.

Mark this particular bill paid in full. This journey takes place right here, right now, inside the most complex region of the Twilight Zone.
