Opening Narration

Introduction to a person we all have all regretted meeting at least once in our lifetime

At the very least we have all had the great displeasure of being related to this person as a family member

In this particular case, thirty-two year old Shane Carpenter , a man who is always right and never wrong, a man who refuses to answer to anybody or take no for an answer, irregardless of the situation

In just a moment Shane's brash nature and mean uncompromising demeanor is forever going to cast him and his bad attitude into the darkest region of the Twilight Zone

Closing Narration

A very wise man once said, “Man is always looking for someone to dislike more than himself.” tonight's tale of attitude, empathy and self reflection in the Twilight Zone.
