Opening Narration

Rod Serling, successful writer, is living the American Dream. But after a career beleaguered by confrontations with network executives, censorship of sponsors and suffering the barbs of critics regarding his recent creative endeavors, he feels weary and haunted by who, and what, will define his legacy. Tonight, joined by apparitions of characters from his writings, his conscience and imagination embark on a journey of rediscovery to reclaim the passion and independent spirit of his youthful self in...the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Mr. Serling's untimely departure from this life leaves what he believed was to be his signature iconic work, ironically titled Submitted For Your Approval, lost amidst a jumble of papers and tapes to be boxed and stored. But though his defining magnum opus vanishes into the 5th Dimension for now, it is destined to be found at some future time within the archives of...the Twilight Zone.
