

“The Mad Philosopher's Revelation”

© 2023 by Monique Canniere

Opening Narration

Here we are...so close yet so faraway...in a place so familiar, yet stranger than anyone has ever known. Did we get caught in a stitch in time? Does karma come from kindness or crime? Everything's different, yet the same. Are bygone days a rose by any other name? Will time last forever or constantly change? Or is it an unfinished masterpiece beyond mortal range?

The difference between evil and good seems yet to be understood. Are the limits of the mind too distant to locate? While attempting to time travel, will the world crumble? Will reality unravel, as we enter...the Twilight Zone?

Closing Narration

Birds will fly, fires will burn; something will always turn, if only we earn the right to know what we've yet to learn...And here we are, so close yet so faraway, in a place so familiar, yet stranger than anyone has ever known...a place called...the Twilight Zone!