

“Where It All Started”

© 2023 by Reuben Nelson

Opening Narration

With the keystroke of “enter”, the chatgpt artificial intelligence program David has been developing for his previous employer prior to being laid off himself, now as a freelancer, was finally complete. With this program, industries of all sorts will soon heavily rely on A.I for efficiency on writing skills and soon enough, assisting to produce items consumers want. To honour David’s great-uncle who himself invested in computers, named his software company: W.V Whipple Manufacturing Corporation.

Closing Narration

As artificial intelligence took over industries and civilization in the ensuing centuries, humans themselves became obsolete. History books suggest in David’s final years, he regretted following in his great-uncle’s footsteps of machine replacing man. Intelligence learned not only in, The Twilight Zone.