

All Men Are Created Equal ©2024 by Gary Lynn Clevenger

Opening Narration

Two young boys, both have been best friends for over ten years, as of today these two boys are no longer allowed to be friends

Because as of today it's unlawful

As of today their names no longer matter to society

What does matters is their number and your number

Today you have been separated into different groups

Separated by gender separated by race and separated by ideology

You now live in a society where you are tagged, tracked, and your every action is recorded by the state

In a realm where anything can happen and usually does

Its happening

Right here and now

In the darkest region of The Twilight Zone

Closing Narration

A wise man once said

All of us are equal

Or none of us are equal

A lesson to be taught in every classroom before the class bell rings at the end of the day