

“As Above, So Below”

copyright © 2024 by Anthony Mark Ruspantini

Opening Narration

The place is here. The time is now. You've arrived in the City of Providence, Rhode Island, a bustling New England coastal city known for its dynamic artistic scene and remarkable design school.

Yet a gathering of twelve and one design originals sets out on a journey beyond their innovations. And the Emerald Tablet they've unearthed in College Hill morphs design dreams into reality itself instantly, with curious consequences as above, so below into the depths of their imagination. Take a look around... you're in the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

As the sun sets over Providence, our design visionaries feel overwhelmed by what they have encountered. The power and emerald glow of their strange ancient tablet, as it bends and blends art and design seamlessly, with the fabric of the universe. Here, they realize their limitless imagination can truly transform reality. Yet have they forgotten they're in... the Twilight Zone.