

“Carpet Rides Aren't Free”

copyright © 2024 by Anthony Mark Ruspantini

Opening Narration

In the bustling heart of Providence, Rhode Island, where the whispers of the past often meet the dreams of the future, two young pioneers, Vincent, a RISD design whiz, and Troy, a Brown engineering genius, are about to take an unexpected journey. With an 8 by 10 foot size carpet embedded with LED diodes and fueled by their discovery that lifts the carpet with vector magnetic reverse pattern charges, they're set to defy gravity. Today, at the Providence River gondola landing, magic awaits. But beware, in The Twilight Zone, carpet rides aren't free.

Closing Narration

In the end, our young innovators Vincent and Troy soared on the wings of ambition, their carpet defying the constraints of earthly bonds. Yet, as the full moon rises over Providence, they have discovered the hidden cost of flying too close to The Twilight Zone.