Opening Narration

Portrait of a man on a date. His name is Perry Claymore Flemming. Age: 31. Occupation: banker. His world is full of rocks and tomes. His idea of a stimulating date conversation? A discussion on igneous formations. His social life? Barren as the Mojave Desert. He spends nights alone in the company of geological texts and hopes someday, someone will share his passion for geology. Until then, he remains in a sea of solitude. He will be aided in his quest to find companionship but, Mr. Flemming will find he is being led... into The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Perry Flemming, a man who wanted love so badly, he bartered his soul to the devil to become a great lover, learned true love cannot be bought. Perry paid the ultimate price for his Faustian deal, his life extinguished by desires he sought fulfilled. Tonight's tale of sinner take all... from The Twilight Zone.
