Opening Narration

On the flyer that advertised the position of Deep-Space Geologist, it said nothing of the pieces of junk that the agents are issued to hop from one asteroid to another. No small detail considering that the newest recruit, Mr. Douglas Ennis, has been stuck on Asteroid 1997MS for 5 months with a spaceship that will not start. The only thing preventing him from going insane with loneliness is a mysterious morse code transmission on the spacecraft's radio. A broadcast coming from the center of... the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

The loneliest man on Earth is only a couple thousand miles from the next human being. Mr. Douglas Ennis is millions of light years away from the closest multicellular organism. What Mr. Ennis ignored when he signed up to be a deep-space geologist, is that it came with a one-way ticket to... the Twilight Zone.
