

“His Words, Not Mine”
copyright © 2024 by Robin Kirwan

Opening Narration

It is a night of hope and anticipation for writer William Brogan as he awaits the announcement for the winner of best screenplay. Well, tonight is his lucky night, or so it would seem. Because as William Brogan steps onto the stage to receive his award, he takes a step into another place, a place where the truth will come back to haunt him. A place called... The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

Plagiarism, copying, stealing – call it what you will. For William Brogan, taking credit for the work of another was simply too tempting to resist. But one night of glory soon made way for a lifetime of torment that came from beyond the grave. There are always consequences for our actions, especially in... The Twilight Zone.