

“The Daystar”

copyright © 2024 by James Hughes

Opening Narration

The date is the near future and the reign of mankind has left the earth a war-torn and depleted world. Just when all of the world leaders are about to give in to defeat, a knock arrives on each of their doors. The men who are knocking at this moment all just happen to have the same exact face...

Closing Narration

Long ago, in a very old book, a warning was given about someone who was known as the daystar. It is a term that refers to a false sun, a celestial object bright enough to be confused for a star. Currently the year is 2025 and those who chose to follow the daystar found only desolation. Those who shunned our charismatic orator found themselves in a paradise full of life and color...in a far corner of the Twilight Zone.