Opening Narration

Introducing Christopher, President of the Easton Current Events club, Yale Graduate, know it all. Arrogant, confident, cocky, and unintimidated by other opinions. In his club, there is no room for dissent, because Christopher is adamant that he is always right. He alone can solve the world’s problems, and make the right decision in any crisis. Today, however, is different, Christopher opens the door to the meeting room, finding himself in the Oval Office at the resolute desk, in the middle of a crisis surrounded by arguing advisors. Christopher has bragged his way into the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

As the Current Events participants of Easton file into the meeting room, they are greeted by a traumatized Christopher. Covered in sweat, disheveled, tie askew, dejected, begging for all opinions to be heard and work together. A lesson, learned the hard way in the Twilight Zone.
