

“Transported”

copyright © 2024 by Robert Dodrill

Opening Narration

This is Mr. Franklin Walker, a tenacious inventor whose passion often exceeds his success. His motto: “Dare to dream.” Tonight, that optimism appears to pay off as he finally unlocks the secret to his greatest invention yet—teleportation. But, unfortunately for Mr. Walker, he’s about to transport himself straight into the Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

“Dare to dream”—the once unwavering motto Franklin lived by—has now become his inescapable nightmare, as he finds himself trapped in the hellish dimension he teleported into. A victim of his own idealistic imagination, a victim of the Twilight Zone.