Opening Narration

Mark the introduction of Tom Daly. Occupation: reporter. Mr. Daly is a man of the written word who thrives on gossip. He’s facing a reporter’s worst nightmare, a broken typewriter. Help will soon come from a rather unusual source; a typewriter that was manufactured in...The Twilight Zone.

Closing Narration

The coroner’s report on the death of Tom Daly listed the cause as heart attack, but the hard truth bore darker shades. Tom Daly, a victim of his own discovery who dared to dance with the hands of time, found his fate in the hands of a bitter rival.

In the end, the typewriter that promised power delivered a cruel twist of fate. A friendly word to the wise: should you find a typewriter that writes headlines before they hit the presses, you’d best be careful into whose hands you let it fall or someone else might write the end of your story in...The Twilight Zone.
